

COVID-19 Statement from Stratford Underwriting Agency

The novel coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic is a stressful time for all of us.

Our priority during these challenging times is supporting our customers, staff and business partners, while helping to ensure the health and well-being of everyone in our shared communities.

We are committed to maintaining business continuity as the situation develops, while adhering closely to guidelines and directives from government and public health agencies. We are limiting potential exposure by employing our work-from-home policy for all employees. This will not diminish our level of service.

You can still reach us by phone or email for underwriting and claims services. Our insurance products remain available through our province-wide network of brokers, who are authorized to provide quotes and conduct business over the phone.

Be assured that we are working hard to maintain a high level of service during these unprecedented times.

Sincerely,

Colin Brown
Chief Executive Officer
Stratford Underwriting Agency